Our Vision

Though we are many, we are one body. Together, we learn and grow.

God is at the heart of all we do, shining His light to guide us on our journey. Together, we face change and transformation with courage.

In love, we nurture all to be resilient, hopeful and aspirational; to become the very best version of ourselves, knowing that we are loved.

Each member of our school community is honoured and celebrated for their unique character and qualities: difference is met with dignity and compassion. Though we are many, we are one body.

Our community at Brierley stretches beyond the school, where we share God's message of love through our actions, our thoughts and our words as we continue on life's path.

Introduction

In September 2021 the Department for Education released updated advice; Sexual violence and sexual harassment between children in schools and colleges – advice for governing bodies, proprietors, head teachers, principals, senior leadership teams and designated safeguarding leads.

The advice is to be read and referenced alongside the current Keeping Children Safe in Education document. The focus is sexual violence and sexual harassment between children at school and college, the guidance seeks to define the issues, minimise risks and what to do if an incident occurs/alleged to have occurred.

What is meant by sexual violence and sexual harassment between children?

Sexual violence and sexual harassment can occur between two children of any sex.

They can also occur through a group of children sexually assaulting or sexually harassing a single child or group of children.

Children who are victims of sexual violence and sexual harassment will likely find the experience stressful and distressing. This will, in all likelihood, adversely affect their educational attainment.

Brierley C of E Primary School will aim is to support these pupils to access their education and get the correct specialist support, working in partnership with the police and children's services.

We are clear that sexual violence and sexual harassment is not acceptable, will never be tolerated and is not an inevitable part of growing up.

We will always challenge behaviour or language that seeks to normalise sexual harassment or violence in school.

Sanctions will be applied in accordance with our behaviour policy

What is the definition of sexual violence?

There are many different ways to describe children who have been subjected to sexual violence and/or sexual harassment and many ways to describe those who are alleged to have carried out any form of abuse. For the purposes of this advice, we use the term 'victim'. It is a widely recognised and understood term.

For the purpose of this policy we use the term 'perpetrator'. It is important to remember that, as a child, any perpetrator should be provided with, a different level of support to that which might be provided to an adult who is alleged to have abused a child

For the purpose of this policy, when referring to sexual violence we are referring to sexual offences under the Sexual Offences Act 2003 as described below:

Rape: A person (A) commits an offence of rape if: he intentionally penetrates the vagina, anus or mouth of another person (B) with his penis, B does not consent to the penetration and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

Assault by Penetration: A person (A) commits an offence if: s/he intentionally penetrates the vagina or anus of another person (B) with a part of her/his body or anything else, the penetration is sexual, B does not consent to the penetration and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

Sexual Assault: A person (A) commits an offence of sexual assault if: s/he intentionally touches another person (B), the touching is sexual, B does not consent to the touching and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

Sexual assault covers a very wide range of behaviour. A single act of kissing someone without consent or touching someone's bottom/breasts/genitalia without consent can still constitute sexual assault

Causing someone to engage in sexual activity without consent: A person (A) commits an offence if: s/he intentionally causes another person (B) to engage in an activity, the activity is sexual, B does not consent to engaging in the activity, and A does not reasonably believe that B consents. (This could include forcing someone to strip, touch themselves sexually, or to engage in sexual activity with a third party.)

What is consent?

Someone consents to vaginal, anal or oral penetration only if s/he agrees by choice to that penetration and has the freedom and capacity to make that choice.

Consent to sexual activity may be given to one sort of sexual activity but not another, e.g. to vaginal but not anal sex or penetration with conditions, such as wearing a condom.

Consent can be withdrawn at any time during sexual activity and each time activity occurs.

- a child under the age of 13 can never consent to any sexual activity;
- the age of consent is 16;
- sexual intercourse without consent is rape.

What is sexual harassment?

For the purpose of this policy, when referring to sexual harassment we mean 'unwanted conduct of a sexual nature' that can occur online and offline and both inside and outside of school'.

When we reference sexual harassment, we do so in the context of child on child sexual harassment.

Sexual harassment is likely to: violate a child's dignity, and/or make them feel intimidated, degraded or humiliated and/or create a hostile, offensive or humiliating environment.

Whilst not intended to be an exhaustive list, sexual harassment can include:

- humiliating comments, such as: telling sexual stories, making lewd comments, making humiliating remarks about clothes and appearance and calling someone names;
- sexual "jokes" or taunting;
- physical behaviour, such as: deliberately brushing against someone, interfering with someone's clothes and displaying pictures, photos or drawings of a sex nature; and
- online sexual harassment. This may be standalone or part of a wider pattern of sexual harassment and/or sexual violence.
It may include:

- Consensual and non-consensual sharing of nude and semi-nude images and videos as set out in UKCIS Sharing nudes and semi-nudes: advice for education settings working with children and young people (which provides detailed advice for schools and colleges) taking and sharing nude photographs of U18s is a criminal offence;
- sharing of unwanted explicit content;
- upskirting (a criminal offence);
- humiliating online bullying;
- unwanted sexual comments and messages, including, on social media;
- sexual exploitation; coercion and threats.

Harmful Sexual Behaviour

Children's sexual behaviour exists on a wide continuum, from normal and developmentally expected to inappropriate, problematic, abusive and violent. Problematic, abusive and violent sexual behaviour is developmentally inappropriate and may cause developmental damage. A useful umbrella term is "harmful sexual behaviour" (HSB). The term has been widely adopted in child protection. HSB can occur online and/or face to face and can also occur simultaneously between the two. HSB should be considered in a child protection context.

When considering HSB, ages and the stages of development of the children are critical factors. Sexual behaviour between children can be considered harmful if one of the children is much older, particularly if there is more than two years' difference or if one of the children is pre-pubescent and the other is not. However, a younger child can abuse an older child, particularly if they have power over them, for example, if the older child is disabled or smaller in stature. Confidential, specialist support and advice on HSB is available from the specialist sexual violence sector:

- Rape Crisis (England & Wales) or The Survivors Trust for information, have advice, and details of local specialist sexual violence organisations.
- NICE guidance contains information on, amongst other things: developing interventions; working with families and carers; and multi-agency working.
- The Lucy Faithfull Foundation has developed a HSB toolkit, which amongst other things, provides support, advice and information on how to prevent it, links to organisations and helplines, resources about HSB by children, internet safety, sexual development and preventing child sexual abuse.
- The NSPCC provides free and independent advice about HSB: NSPCC Learning: Protecting children from harmful sexual behaviour and NSPCC - Harmful sexual behaviour framework
- Contextual Safeguarding Network – Beyond Referrals (Schools) provides a school self-assessment toolkit and guidance for addressing HSB in schools.
- Stop It Now - Preventing harmful sexual behaviour in children - Stop It Now provides a guide for parents, carers and professionals to help everyone do their part in keeping children safe, they also run a free confidential helpline.

How do we respond to reports of sexual violence and sexual harassment?

Reports of sexual violence and sexual harassment are likely to be complex and require difficult professional decisions to be made, often quickly and under pressure.

Guidance from the DfE is clear that it does not attempt to provide (nor would it be possible to provide) detailed advice on what we should do in any or every particular case; it provides effective safeguarding practice and principles for us to consider in our decision making process. Ultimately, all decisions at Brierley C of E Primary School will be made on a case-by-case basis.

The Designated Safeguarding Leaders (DSLs) will take the leading role and will use their professional judgement, supported by other agencies, such as children's social care and the police as required.

Some situations are statutorily clear:

- a child under the age of 13 can never consent to any sexual activity
- the age of consent is 16
- sexual intercourse without consent is rape
- rape, assault by penetration and sexual assault are defined in law; and
- creating and sharing sexual photos and videos of under-18s is illegal (often referred to as sexting). This includes children making and sharing sexual images and videos of themselves.

Our basic safeguarding principle is: if a child has been harmed, is in immediate danger, or is at risk of harm a referral should be made to children's social care.

A social worker should respond to the referrer within one working day to explain what action they will be taking.

We will usually inform parents that we are making a referral to children's social care however, this too is on a case by case basis. It may be that we have assessed the situation and believe that a referral is needed without parental knowledge in order to safeguard pupils involved.

Once a referral is processed children's social care will consider if early help, section 17 and/or 47 statutory assessments are appropriate.

We will support in an early help assessment, child protection enquiry, strategy discussion and child protection conference.

We will work closely with the police as rape, assault by penetration and sexual assaults are crimes. Where there is a report of a rape, assault by penetration or sexual assault, the starting point is it should be passed to the police who will advise and log according to their own guidelines.

Responding to reports of sexual violence and sexual harassment online

We are aware that incidents of sexual violence and sexual harassment that occur online (either in isolation or in connection to offline incidents) can introduce a number of complex factors. These include the potential for the incident to take place across a number of social media platforms and services and for things to move from platform to platform online.

It also includes the potential for the impact of the incident to extend further than our local community (e.g. for images or content to be shared around neighbouring schools) and for a victim (or alleged perpetrator) to become marginalised and excluded by both online and offline communities.

There is also the strong potential for repeat victimisation in the future if abusive content continues to exist somewhere online.

We will act in accordance with our Anti-Bullying policy if we are made aware that our pupils are using online platforms which in any way jeopardises the safety of other members of our school community.

The immediate response to a report - Managing the disclosure

We will always do our utmost to ensure that victims are reassured that they are being taken seriously and that they will be supported and kept safe.

In some cases, the victim may not make a direct report or disclosure.

For example, a friend may make a report or a member of our school may overhear a conversation that suggests a child has been harmed.

As with all safeguarding concerns, our staff are trained to follow the school protocol regarding the recognised signs of safety and will speak to one of the DSLs.

This discussion will be handled sensitively and with the support of children's social care if required.

Our safeguarding practice includes:

- not promising confidentiality at this initial stage as it is very likely a concern will have to be shared further (for example with the designated safeguarding lead or children's social care) to discuss next steps.

- only sharing the report with those people who are necessary in order to progress it.
- listening carefully to the child, being non-judgmental, being clear about boundaries and how the disclosure will be progressed, not asking leading questions and only prompting the child where necessary with open questions – where, when, what etc;
- when making a record of the disclosure we write up a thorough summary and log it on CPOMS (our child protection recording system). It may be appropriate to make notes during the disclosure (especially if a second member of staff is present). However, if making notes during any disclosures we are conscious of the need to remain engaged with the pupil;
- we make sure to only record the facts as the student presents them. The notes should not reflect the personal opinion of the note taker. We are aware that notes of such disclosures could become part of a statutory assessment by children’s social care and/or part of a criminal investigation;
- if possible, we aim to manage disclosures with two members of staff present, (preferably one of them being the DSL). However this might not always be possible; and
- informing the designated safeguarding lead (or deputy) as soon as practically possible if the designated safeguarding lead (or deputy) are not involved in the initial disclosure.

Considering confidentiality and anonymity

a) Confidentiality

Staff taking a disclosure will never promise confidentiality as it is very likely that it will be in the best interests of the victim to seek advice and guidance from others in order to provide support and engage appropriate agencies. We do not consider ourselves to be experts in this area and it is vital that appropriate support is flagged up to the students and parents or organised by us for them.

The victim may ask us not to tell anyone about the sexual violence or sexual harassment. There are no easy or definitive answers when a victim makes this request. If the victim does not give consent to share information, staff may still lawfully share it, if it can be justified to be in the public interest, for example, to protect children from harm and to promote the welfare of children. The DSLs will consider the following:

- parents or carers should normally be informed (unless this would put the victim at greater risk);
 - the basic safeguarding principle is: if a child is at risk of harm, is in immediate danger or has been harmed a referral should be made to children’s social care; and
 - rape, assault by penetration and sexual assaults are crimes. The starting point is that reports should be passed to the police
- Ultimately, the DSL will have to balance the victim’s wishes against their duty to protect the victim and other children within the school setting.

If we do decide to make a referral to children’s social care and/or a report to the police against the victim’s wishes, this will be handled extremely carefully, the reasons will in most cases be explained to the victim and appropriate specialist support offered.

b) Anonymity

Where we are aware that an allegation of sexual violence or sexual harassment is progressing through the criminal justice system, we will be mindful of anonymity, witness support and the criminal process in general so that we can offer support and act appropriately.

In addition we will endeavour to do all we can to reasonably protect the anonymity of any children involved in any report of sexual violence or sexual harassment.

We will carefully consider which staff in our school should know about the report and any support that will be in place for the children involved.

We are however, mindful that if an investigation is ongoing it is not our place to offer guidance and support to the children and their families beyond what could reasonably be expected in regards to their education.

We will also act in accordance with our Anti-Bullying policy when considering the potential impact of social media in facilitating the spreading of rumours and exposing victims' identities.

Risk Assessment

When there has been a report of sexual violence, the DSL will carry out an immediate risk assessment.

Where there has been a report of sexual harassment, the need for a risk assessment should be considered on a case-by-case basis. The risk assessment should consider:

- the victim;
- the alleged perpetrator; and
- the other children (and, if appropriate, staff) at school.

The risk assessments will be recorded (written or electronic) and will be kept under regular review, reflecting any changes in circumstances.

At all times, we will be actively considering the risks posed to all our pupils and put adequate measures in place to protect them and keep them safe during school hours. The DSLs will continue to liaise with children's social care and specialist services as required. Where there has been a report of sexual violence, it is likely that professional risk assessments by social workers and or sexual violence specialists will be required. Any such professional assessments will be used to inform our approach to supporting and protecting the pupils and updating our own risk assessment.

Action following a report of sexual violence and/or sexual harassment

We will carefully consider any report of sexual violence and/or sexual harassment.

Important considerations will include:

- the wishes of the victim in terms of how they want to proceed. This is especially important in the context of sexual violence and sexual harassment. Victims should be given as much control as is reasonably possible over decisions regarding how any investigation will be progressed and any support that they will be offered;

- The school's ongoing relationship with the involved pupil's families if appropriate
- the nature of the alleged incident(s), including: might a crime have been committed and consideration of harmful sexual behaviour;
- the ages of the pupils involved;
- the developmental stages of the pupils involved;
- any power imbalance between the pupils (e.g. is the alleged perpetrator significantly older);
- if the alleged incident is a one off or a sustained pattern of abuse (where this may be known);
- are there ongoing risks; and
- other related issues and wider context. Where incidents and/or behaviours are associated with factors outside the school or occur between children outside the school, we will consider contextual safeguarding. This simply means assessments of children in such cases should consider whether wider environmental factors are present in a child's life that are a threat to their safety and/or welfare.

Options to manage the report

We will consider every report on a case-by-case basis. When to inform the alleged perpetrator will be a decision that will be carefully considered. Where a report is going to be made to children's social care and/or the police, then, as a general rule, we will speak to the relevant agency and discuss next steps and how the alleged perpetrator will be informed of the allegations.

There are four likely scenarios we will need to consider when managing any reports of sexual violence and/or sexual harassment:

a) Manage internally

- In some cases of sexual harassment, for example one-off incidents, the school may take the view that the students concerned are not in need of early help or statutory intervention and that it would be appropriate to handle the incident internally, perhaps through utilising our behaviour and bullying policies and by providing pastoral support.

b) Early help

- In line with A) above, we may decide that the children involved do not require statutory interventions but may benefit from early help. Early help means providing support as soon as a problem emerges, at any point in a child's life. Providing early help is more effective in promoting the welfare of children than reacting later. Early help can be particularly useful to address non-violent harmful sexual behaviour and may prevent escalation of sexual violence.

- Multi-agency early help will work best when placed alongside strong school policies, preventative education and engagement with parents and carers.

c) Referrals to children's social care

- Where a child has been harmed, is at risk of harm, or is in immediate danger a likely course of action will be that we make a referral to local children's social care.
- At the referral to children's social care stage, schools will generally inform parents or carers unless there are compelling reasons not to (if informing a parent or carer is going to put the child at additional risk). Any such decision should be made with the support of children's social care.
- If a referral is made, children's social care will then make enquiries to determine whether any of the children involved are in need of protection or other services.
- Where statutory assessments are appropriate, we will (especially DSLs) work alongside, and cooperate with, the relevant lead social worker. Collaborative working will help ensure the best possible package of coordinated support is implemented for the victim and, where appropriate, the alleged perpetrator and any other children that require support.
- We do not need to wait for the outcome (or even the start) of a children's social care investigation before protecting the victim and other children in the school. It will be important for us to work closely with children's social care (and other agencies as required) to ensure any actions we take do not jeopardise a statutory investigation. The risk assessment will help inform all of our decisions.
- In some cases, children's social care will review the evidence and decide a statutory intervention is not appropriate. The school (generally led by the DSL) may refer again if we believe the child remains in immediate danger or at risk of harm. If a statutory assessment is not appropriate, we will consider other support mechanisms such as early help, specialist support and pastoral support.

d) Reporting to the police

- Where a report of rape, assault by penetration or sexual assault is made, the starting point is this should be passed on to the police.
- Reporting to the police will generally be in parallel with referrals to children's social care (as above).
- At this stage, schools will generally inform parents or carers unless there are compelling reasons not to, for example if informing a parent or carer is likely to put a child at additional risk. In circumstances where parents or carers have not been informed, it will be especially important that the school is supporting the child in any decision they take. This should be with the support of children's social care.
- Where a report has been made to the police, the school will consult the police and agree what information can be disclosed to staff and others, in particular the alleged perpetrator and their parents or carers. We will also discuss the best way to protect the victim and their anonymity.

Considering bail conditions

- In the absence of bail conditions, when there is a criminal investigation, early engagement and joined up working between the school, children's social care and the police will be critical to support the victim, alleged perpetrator and other children involved (especially potentially witnesses).

Where required, advice from the police will be sought in order to help the school manage our safeguarding responsibilities.

- The term 'Released Under Investigation' or 'RUI' will replace those previously on bail for offences in circumstances that do not warrant the application of bail to either re-attend on a particular date or to include conditions preventing activity or in some cases ensuring compliance with an administrative process.
- Where bail is deemed proportionate and necessary, as above, the school will work with children's social care and the police to manage any implications and safeguard their children. An important consideration will be to ensure that the victim can continue in their normal routine, including continuing to receive a suitable education.

Managing any delays in the criminal process

There may be delays in any case that is being progressed through the criminal justice system. Schools should not wait for the outcome (or even the start) of a police investigation before protecting the victim, alleged perpetrator and other children in the school.

The risk assessment will help inform any decision:

- Considering any disciplinary action against the alleged perpetrator whilst an investigation is ongoing is discussed below in the alleged perpetrator section.
- Whilst protecting children and/or taking any disciplinary measures against the alleged perpetrator, it will be important for the designated safeguarding lead (or a deputy) to work closely with the police (and other agencies as required), to ensure any actions the school takes do not jeopardise the police investigation.
- The school will ask the police if we have questions about the investigation.

The end of the criminal process

If a child is convicted or receives a caution for a sexual offence, the school will update its risk assessment, ensure relevant protections are in place for all the children at the school and, if it has not already, and consider any suitable action in light of our behaviour policy.

If the perpetrator remains in school we will be very clear as to our expectations regarding the perpetrator now they have been convicted or cautioned. This could include expectations regarding their behaviour and any restrictions we think are reasonable and proportionate with regard to the perpetrator's movement around the school.

Our risk assessment will continue to be revisited and revised where necessary.

We will do our utmost to ensure that the victim and alleged perpetrator remain protected, especially from any bullying or harassment (including online). Where necessary we will invoke sanctions from our Behaviour and Anti-Bullying policies.

Where cases are classified as “no further action” by the police or Crown Prosecution Service, or where there is a not guilty verdict, we will continue to offer support to the victim and the alleged perpetrator for as long as is necessary. The fact that an allegation cannot be substantiated does not necessarily mean that it was unfounded. We will discuss any decisions with the victim in this light and continue to offer support in order for them to access their education. The alleged perpetrator is also likely to require ongoing support for what will have likely been a difficult experience.

Ongoing response - Safeguarding and supporting the victim

We will:

- consider the age and the developmental stage of the victim, the nature of the allegations and the potential risk of further abuse.
- make certain the needs and wishes of the victim are paramount (along with protecting the pupil) in any response. It is important they feel in as much control of the process as is reasonably possible. Wherever possible, the victim, if they wish, should be able to continue in their normal routine. Overall, the priority should be to make the victim’s daily experience as normal as possible, so that their school is a safe space for them.
- make certain the victim is not made to feel they are the problem for making a report or made to feel ashamed for making a report.
- consider the proportionality of the response. Support should be tailored on a case-by-case basis. The support required regarding a one-off incident of humiliating name-calling is likely to be vastly different from that for a report of rape.
- look to provide a physical space for victims to withdraw and avoid any action that would have the effect of isolating the victim, in particular from supportive peer groups
- maintain arrangements to protect and support the victim for a long time or as long as we deem necessary. We will do our best to continue to support this need and will continue to work with children’s social care and other agencies as required.
- aim to do all we can to reasonably protect the victim from bullying and harassment as a result of any report they have made in accordance with our anti-Bullying Policy.
- give all the necessary support for the victim to remain in school, but if the trauma results in the victim being unable to do this, alternative provision or a move to another school or college should be considered to enable them to continue to receive suitable education. This should only be at the request of the victim and with the support of their parents or carers Victims may not disclose the whole picture immediately. They may be more comfortable providing information on a piecemeal basis. It is essential that dialogue is kept open and encouraged. When it is clear that ongoing support will be required, We will provide a designated trusted adult (for example our Parent Support Advisor) to talk to about their needs. The choice of any such adult should be the victim's.

Ongoing Considerations: Victim and alleged perpetrator sharing classes

Once we have decided what the next steps will be in terms of progressing the report, we will consider again the question of the victim and alleged perpetrator sharing classes and sharing space at school.

This will inevitably involve complex and difficult professional decisions, including considering our duty to safeguard children and our duty to educate them.

It is important each report is considered on a case-by-case basis and risk assessments are updated as appropriate.

Where there is a criminal investigation into a rape, assault by penetration or sexual assault, the school will consider how best to keep the victim and alleged perpetrator a reasonable distance apart on school premises and on transport where appropriate. This is in the best interests of both children and should not be perceived to be a judgement on the guilt of the alleged perpetrator; close liaison with the police is essential.

DFE guidance states that where a criminal investigation into a rape or assault by penetration leads to a conviction or caution, the school should take suitable action, if they have not already done so. In all but the most exceptional of circumstances, the rape or assault is likely to constitute a serious breach of discipline and lead to the view that allowing the perpetrator to remain in the same school would seriously harm the education or welfare of the victim (and potentially other pupils).

Where a criminal investigation into sexual assault leads to a conviction or caution, the school should, if it has not already, consider any suitable sanctions in light of our behaviour policy, including consideration of permanent exclusion. Where the perpetrator is going to remain at the school, the principle would be to continue keeping the victim and perpetrator in separate classes and continue to consider the most appropriate way to manage potential contact on school premises and transport.

The nature of the conviction or caution and wishes of the victim will be especially important in determining how to proceed in such cases.

Reports of sexual assault and sexual harassment will, in some cases, not lead to a report to the police (for a variety of reasons). In some cases, rape, assault by penetration, sexual assault or sexual harassment are reported to the police and the case is not progressed or are reported to the police and ultimately result in a not guilty verdict. None of this means the offence did not happen or that the victim lied. The process will have affected both victim and alleged perpetrator. Appropriate support should be provided to both as required and consideration given to sharing classes and potential contact as required on a case-by-case basis. In all cases, schools should record and be able to justify their decision making.

All of the above should be considered with the needs and wishes of the victim at the heart of the process (supported by parents and carers as required).

Any arrangements should be kept under review.

Safeguarding and supporting the alleged perpetrator

The school needs to consider the following:

- On the one hand to safeguard the victim (and the wider student body) and on the other hand providing the alleged perpetrator with an education, safeguarding support as appropriate and implementing any disciplinary sanctions.
- Consider the age and the developmental stage of the alleged perpetrator and nature of the allegations. Any child will likely experience stress as a result of being the subject of allegations and/or negative reactions by their peers to the allegations against them.
- Consider the proportionality of the response. Support (and sanctions) should be considered on a case-by-case basis. Advice will be taken, as appropriate, from children's social care, specialist sexual violence services and the police.
- If it is the case that the alleged perpetrator is moved to another educational institution (for any reason), then we will ensure that the new educational institution is made aware of any ongoing support needs.

Discipline and the alleged perpetrator

With regard to the alleged perpetrator, we will act in accordance with our Behaviour policy and discipline pupils whose conduct falls below the standard which could be reasonably expected of them.

Disciplinary action can be taken whilst other investigations by the police and/or children's social care are ongoing.

The fact that another body is investigating or has investigated an incident does not in itself prevent a school from coming to its own conclusion, on the balance of probabilities, about what happened, and imposing a penalty accordingly.

This is however, a matter for the school and should be carefully considered on a case-by-case basis. The school should consider if, by taking any action, they would prejudice an investigation and/or any subsequent prosecution. Careful liaison with the police and/or children's social care should help us as a school make a determination.

It will also be important to consider whether there are circumstances that make it unreasonable or irrational for the school to reach their own view about what happened while an independent investigation is considering the same facts.

Discipline and support

Taking disciplinary action and still providing appropriate support are not mutually exclusive actions. They can, and should, occur at the same time if necessary.

On the one hand there is preventative or forward-looking action to safeguard the victim and/or the perpetrator, especially where there are concerns that the perpetrator themselves may have been a victim of abuse; and, on the other, there is disciplinary action to punish a perpetrator for their past conduct.

Working with parents and carers

The school will, in most instances, engage with both the victim's and the alleged perpetrator's parents or carers when there has been a report of sexual violence or sexual harassment. It is likely to be proportional and considered on a case-by-case basis).

The exception to this rule is if there is a reason to believe informing a parent or carer will put a child at additional risk.

School should carefully consider what information they provide to the respective parents or carers about the other child involved and when they do so. In some cases, children's social care and/or the police will have a very clear view and it will be important for the school to work with relevant agencies to ensure a consistent approach is taken to information sharing.

It should be the case that the school will meet the victim's parents or carers to discuss what arrangements are being put in place to safeguard the victim and understand their wishes in terms of support they may need and how the report will be progressed.

It is also likely school will meet with the alleged perpetrator's parents or carers to discuss any arrangements that are being put into place that impact the alleged perpetrator. The reason behind any decisions will be explained.
Support for the alleged perpetrator will be discussed.

Consideration to the attendance of other agencies will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

We understand that parents and carers may well struggle to cope with a report that their child has been the victim of an assault or is alleged to have assaulted another child. The school's Parent Support Advisor will work with parents to signpost to them for further support.

Safeguarding other children

Consideration should be given to supporting children who have witnessed sexual violence, especially rape and assault by penetration.

Witnessing such an event is likely to be traumatic and support may be required. We will signpost agencies and support services available where need.

Following any report of sexual violence or sexual harassment, it is likely that some children will take "sides". The school will do all we can to ensure both the victim and alleged perpetrator, and any witnesses, are not being bullied or harassed.

Social media may play a central role in the fall out from any incident or alleged incident. There is the potential for contact between victim and alleged perpetrator and a likelihood that friends from either side could harass the victim or alleged perpetrator online. Any evidence we have of pupils using social media inappropriately will be sanctioned according to our Behaviour and Anti-Bullying policies.

What we do in school to educate our children against harmful sexual behaviours?

We teach children:

Violence is always wrong;
What respectful behaviour looks like
About cultures of sexual harassment
About healthy relationships
About prejudiced behaviour
About gender roles, stereotyping and equality
About body confidence and self esteem

We do this through:

Begin a school of faith, our Christian Values are embedded throughout school life.
These values include, trust, peace, humility, thankfulness, service, compassion, friendship.

Within our PSHE and RSHE programmes we cover issues such as healthy relationships, gender roles, body confidence and self esteem.

Our curriculum, including our Religious Education curriculum promotes equality, tolerance and diversity.

Our focus on British Values empowers our pupils to feel confident and valued

Reading material in school is designed to promote an understanding of gender roles, stereotyping and equality.

Our assemblies cover a range of themes aimed at development empathy, kindness, self worth, confidence and ambition.

Our leadership team also deliver information sessions directly to our pupils regarding sexual harassment and violence in an age appropriate manner.

We ensure DSLs have appropriate and regularly updated training and all staff are trained to recognise signs of safety and harmful sexual behaviours.

This policy has been written with reference to the DFE document, Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment between children in schools and colleges September 2021 and Keeping Children Safe in Education 2023
